

On The Road To Emmaus

I have found that as I walk through life on same the road as previous disciples, their observations are helpful. One such disciple of Jesus that I enjoy reading is Charles Haddon Spurgeon. Here are a few of his quotes on prayer that I have found helpful.

"The habit of private prayer, and the constant practice of heart-communion with God--are the surest indicators of the work of the Holy spirit upon the soul."

"The more a man loves God and becomes more like Jesus--the more delight he takes in heart communion with God."

"If any of you should ask me for the epitome of the Christian life, I would say that it is in one word--prayer."

"All of our libraries and our studies are mere emptiness, compared with our prayer closets."

*"A prayerless soul, is a Christless soul. Prayer is . . .
the lisping of the believing infant,
the shout of the fighting believer,
the requiem of the dying saint falling asleep in Jesus."*

As you are walking on this road road to Emmaus, what are you telling others about prayer? Have you said anything about prayer that they will remember? May we be remembered by those who come after as people of prayer as we travel together on this road to Emmaus.
