

On The Road To Emmaus

In this walk of life it is so easy to feel small and insignificant. Everything can seem so large and beyond our control. We cannot control the economy. We cannot control the government. We cannot control nature. The Psalmist David made reference to this sense of insignificance. He tells us in Psalm 8:3-4: "When I look at your heavens, the work of your fingers, the moon and the stars, which you have set in place, what is man that you are mindful of him, and the son of man that you care for him?" (Ps 8:3-4 esv)

We can rest in our daily walk because God is always mindful of us. We are told that He has numbered every hair on our heads. He has appointed the boundaries of our lives and where we live and He has determined the very second of our death.

God bottles our every tear. He knows our every sorrow. He records our every work. He remembers every cup of cold water that is given in His name. God is deeply concerned with our souls and He has put His glory on the line for our everlasting salvation.

God is more mindful of us, our souls, our life and welfare than we will ever understand in this life.

So as we travel along this path of life, let us remember that He cares for us. Remember to call out to this great God who loves you more than you will ever understand.
